HOSTS OF LABOR MARCH AND SUN GLEAMS ON INDUSTRIAL PARADE

Labor Parade and Picnic Prove Record Breakers in Number Who Take Part.

Even Old Sol himself could not resist the temptation to peek at labor's marching hosts, and when Chief Copelan and his police cavalry swung into Main street at the head of the parade Monday morning the heavy, black clouds melted away and the sun's rays began gleaming and beaming on the banners and galia of the brawny legions of toil. previous procession in this city had so

Only the ice men were missing and a bannered automobile told that 800 of who desired to patronize the various them were obliged to work and could not march. It would be a difficult matter for judges to name the union which made the best showing. The physical appearance of all was equally good, but the "flash" offered by some deserved particular praise. The brewery-wagon drivers, with white hats and shirts and each man carrying an American flag, seemed, exceptionally attractive. The each man carrying an American flag, seemed exceptionally attractive. The bakers, with their all-white uniforms and with those in front bearing huge loaves of trade unions, of bread and rolls, were given much attention. In the center of this division was an automobile containing a mamual for the man with the largest family.

Each of the seven divisions had one or more bands in line and the music was excellent. There was very little duplicaexcellent. There was very more and popu-tion of pieces, the national airs and popu-tion of pieces, the national airs and popular airs being of wide variety. There were more girls and women in the parade than ordinarily, but these rode in floats for the most part. Two women were members of marching bands. The new union of watchmen, or merchant police,

Thomas McEwen, of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and J. J. Daly, of the Teamsters' Union, reviewed the parade from Government square. The last time Mr. Rist was Grand Marshal of a Labor Day parade was in 1800. The formation of the parade was as follows: Escort of police. Grand Marshal, as-sistants and staff. Central Labor Coun-cil.
